Headline:
Sunny spells and showers today. Turning wet and windy later.

Today:
It will be another day of sunny spells and showers, possibly heavy at times. However, cloud and rain, again heavy at times, will arrive from the west during the evening, accompanied by strengthening winds. Staying on the cool side. Maximum temperature 14 deg C (57 deg F).

Tonight:
Rain and strong winds will continue to move northeastwards, gradually clearing into the North Sea shortly after midnight. Drier with clearer spells following on behind. Less cold. Minimum temperature 6 deg C (43 deg F).

Monday:
Another showery day for most. Showers will develop widely during the afternoon, these are likely to be heavy and possibly thundery, with the risk of hail. Breezy and feeling cool. Maximum temperature 15 deg C (59 deg F).

Outlook for Tuesday to Thursday:
Further showers on Tuesday, heavy and possibly thundery. Cloudier with outbreaks of rain on Wednesday. Turning drier, clearer and chilly overnight. Mostly fine and dry with sunny spells on Thursday.
